RAM Technologies Teams With IBM to Serve SMB Marketplace

FORT WASHINGTON, PENN. – November 17, 2009 – RAM Technologies, Inc., a leading developer of healthcare administration software, has chosen to team with IBM to bring industry-leading claims management solutions to market for small to mid-size healthcare payer organizations.

Insurance companies and health care payers are looking for new ways to simplify claims processing and take advantage of the coming wave of digital infrastructures throughout the healthcare industry that will connect doctors, administrators and payer organizations to improve customer service.

RAM's solutions include HEALTHsuite® and eHealthsuite™ which utilize IBM WebSphere and DB2 software. HEALTHsuite is an enterprise wide solution with fully integrated capabilities to support eligibility and enrollment and group administration, benefit administration, provider contracting and reimbursement, utilization and medical management, premium billing, care management, claims administration, customer service, capitation, subrogation, overpayment recovery, reporting, EDI and more.

eHealthsuite is RAM's secure web portal product that works in concert with HEALTHsuite providing self-service and real-time transaction processing for members, providers, brokers and employer groups via the Internet.

“Extending our relationship with IBM was an easy decision and enables us to continue providing payers with a simple yet unmatched ability to increase the automation of core processes resulting in reduced administrative costs for our clients,” states Christopher Minton, Executive Vice President of RAM Technologies. “The combination of RAM and IBM technologies provide our joint clients with powerful, secure and scalable systems in an open infrastructure environment.”
